looking very far back or forward - If the bookseller to whom you address your parcel in London would send it me on its receipt, addressed to Mr H Randolph Cliffe Edinburgh - I should probably receive it without any unnecessary delay - I shall send you a remittance of £3 - by next packet -

I remain
Dear you,

John Duns

I would wish the Anti-Slavery Missionary

Register or Journal sent me a few numbers as have already been published - first day Sabbath - This was rather ~~new~~ new for me, to ^{perhaps} give him a touch of my muscle in ^{the} opinions I had expressed.

Would you send me one or two of the non-resistant works, that I may know where the gentlemen stand, or rather float. Also my ~~of~~ good reply - I have got Chevre or Capital punishment which is excellent. My letter as yet has been viewed in silence - though every other objector has received a quantum of appreciation - ^{with} and yet ~~very~~ ^{very} ~~now~~ ^{now} ~~though~~ ^{though} ~~in~~ ⁱⁿ ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~letter~~ ^{letter} was not published till after the freedom of the city had been agreed to be imposed on Mr Thompson - I would also wish you to send me some of your own letters and those of others on organic food. I fear Dr. Cunningham will be too happy to get under that ~~weight~~ which is a weary load - My own

Dear Sir

67

Mr D. Scott a celebrated historical painter and myself are making a run this beautiful afternoon to the ~~the~~ side of Wras, a spot presenting to me in its geological features and sublimity, a strong resemblance to important sections of the Jura range. Be this what it may I write you on the way at Glasgow and you will perceive from the newspapers sent that the Wright crisis has come sooner to a height than was anticipated. As far as I recollect he took occasion from some few observations made upon his opinions on the Sabbath ^{by your individual} to vent his whole Sat anti Sabbath dogmas and pleasuring the throat of Edinburgh. I believe, with my own name and that of others a ^{large} ~~large~~ ^{number} in connection with the
